CLIENT OVERVIEW

Founded in 1929, Genco Masonry is one of the oldest masonry contractors in the Washington, DC metropolitan area. The firm serves multi-family, commercial, institutional, and government clients and has won numerous awards for craftsmanship.

CLIENT IMPACT

Today, Genco provides building management companies with experienced restoration managers and highly-trained craftsmen ready to tackle any problem relating to brick, block, concrete or stone. The firm has grown to become one of the largest masonry contractors in the Washington, DC metro area where it is based, and across the United States.

THE SITUATION

It’s unclear exactly how long Genco has been working with MCB; the oldest tax return that has been identified is from 1952. “My grandfather and Francis Carter knew each other,” said firm Chairman and Executive Vice President Tony Izzo. “I consider this to be a long-term professional relationship with friends.”

MCB IMPACT

In working with multiple generations, and seeing the business grow and evolve over time, MCB has served a variety of needs for Genco and its leadership. “MCB does all the accounting and financial work for us, as well as audit, advisory and tax work for a master limited partnership and dynasty trust. They are extremely well-versed in many types of accounting services,” said Izzo.

KEY RESULTS DELIVERED

When it comes to comprehensive services, MCB has supported the business as it has proudly stood the test of time. “In addition to delivering work on time and with great accuracy, they have always understood what we needed,” Izzo stated. “We have a very strong relationship with Jude and the team at MCB. We’ve never felt the need to look elsewhere.”
